AFFIDAVIT OF LAWRENCE J. KORB

(Sworn Chaby 6 , 1992)

- I, LAWRENCE J. KORB, of the City of Washington, in the District of Columbia, United States of America, MAKE OATH AND SAY AS FOLLOWS:
- I am the Director of the Centre for Public Policy Education and Senior Fellow in the Foreign Policy Studies Program at the Brookings Institution, a public policy research organization. During the years from 1981 to 1985 I served as the Assistant Secretary of Defence (Manpower, Reserve Affairs, Installations and Logistics) with the United States Government.
- 2. I received my Master's Degree in 1962 from St. Johns University and my Doctorate from the State University of New York at Albany. My Doctorate was in International Relations with a focus on Security Policy.
- I served for four years on active duty as a Naval Flight Officer in the United States Navy. After my discharge from active duty I was affiliated with the Navy Reserve for 20 years. I retired in 1985 with the rank of Captain.
- 4. I have held several academic positions including four years at the United States Coast Guard Academy from 1971 to 1975, and five years at the United States Navel War College from 1975 to

- 1980. I served as the Dean of the Graduate School of Public and International Affairs at the University of Pittsburgh from 1985 to 1987. I am currently an Adjunct Professor at Georgetown University where I teach a course in the Pentagon on National Security Studies. Attached as Exhibit "A" to this my Affidavit is a true copy of my Curriculum Vitae.
- 5. My areas of study at the Brookings Institution include social issues impacting on the Armed Forces, particularly as regards the integration of women and minorities into the Military. My direct experience is with the United States Armed Forces, but through my research on foreign policy I am also familiar with the situation as regards the Canadian Armed Forces. My opinion and experience in the United States in this area can fairly be applied to Canada.
- The policy of the United States Armed Forces is one which prohibits the employment of gay men and lesbians. In my opinion this policy is wrong. I am not aware of any empirically sound evidence which supports the thesis that homosexuality among the members of the Armed Forces would have any adverse affect on the completion of the mission of the Armed Forces. In this regard I have reviewed the Affidavit of Colonel Henderson, sworn August 25, 1992, and the Affidavit of Dr. Suedfeld, sworn August 26, 1992. Attached as Exhibit "B" to this my Affidavit is a true copy of a memorandum dated August 2, 1975, from the Chief of Naval Personnel to the Judge Advocate General in the United States concerning the Navy's homosexual discharge policy. In that memorandum the following question is asked: "Does the Navy have any empirical proof that homosexuality among its members has an adverse affect upon the completion of its mission?" and the following answer is given: "No such empirical proof is known at this time."
- 7. In my opinion the opportunity to serve one's country is one of the fullest embodiments of citizenship and any denial of this right should be based on hard evidence. In addition, the

П

Military also provides opportunities for education, training and other experiences which many people would otherwise be unable to take advantage of.

- 8. During my tenure at the Pentagon as Assistant Secretary of Defence I had to oversee the placing of mixed gender crews into Minuteman silos. Crews go down into silos for 24 hour periods. The argument was made that if men and women were placed in silos together cohesion, morale, order and discipline would be undermined. In spite of this argument mixed gender crews were introduced and it was discovered that the fears expressed were unfounded.
- 9. The experience cited above is a small one compared to the integration of Blacks into the Armed Forces which was instituted in 1948. At that time segregation between Blacks and Whites was very common in the United States. Many in the leadership in the Military took the position that Whites would not serve with Blacks and that to force them to do so would undermine cohesion, morale and discipline, thereby ruining the ability of the United States Armed Forces to conduct wars. This prediction proved false. In the United States we have instituted educational and training programs in the Armed Forces designed to counter prejudice and to make it clear that a person's Military career will suffer if one is unable to accept integration.
- 10. The privacy concerns expressed by the Military leadership are also concerns which have been expressed before, both with respect to Blacks and with respect to women. In the United States Navy there was considerable concern expressed about having men and women serving together in the closed confines of a ship, even if separate sleeping quarters could be established. In fact the integration has been successfully accomplished, again through education and leadership.
- 11. I am aware of the training and education involved in becoming a first class member of the Armed Forces in Canada and the United States. When a member of the Armed Forces is released all that training and education is lost. The loss to the Armed Forces is twofold. The expertise and experience of the member is gone. In addition, the money spent on that member's training must now be spent to replace him or her.

- 12. The concern of people who are actively engaged in carrying out a dangerous military mission is to know that the other people engaged in the mission with them are qualified. Sexual orientation is of little importance in a situation of danger.
- 13. During the period of the "Persian Gulf" war a policy was instituted in the United States Military known as "Stoploss". Under this policy people who were otherwise in a position to leave the Armed Forces were told that they could not leave because they were needed to fight. The purpose of the policy was to allow the Armed Forces to enter the war with their units intact, without having to train new replacements. This policy was applied to gay The effect was that men and women who had men and lesbians. declared their sexual orientation as homosexual were required to serve with their units during the war. After their return, discharge proceedings were then instituted because of their sexual orientation regardless of how well they may have served in the Gulf war. Attached as Exhibit "C" to this my Affidavit is a true copy of the State of Washington National Guard's policy promulgated about "Stoploss". The policy regarding homosexuality is set forth at page 2-1-8 and reads as follows:

"22-Criteria: Homosexuality

- ACTION: a. If discharge has been requested and approved prior to the unit's receipt of alert notification, the member will be discharged prior to the unit's effective date of AD (Active Duty)(brackets added) IAW Chapter 10, AR 135-178.
  - b. If discharge has been requested but not yet approved, delayed entry will be requested IAW AR 601-25 pending final determination.
  - c. If discharge is not requested prior to the unit's receipt of alert notification discharge is not authorized. Member will enter AD with unit."

Part of the rationale for the "Stoploss" policy is to prevent false claims as to sexual orientation in an effort to avoid Active Duty. However, the Stoploss policy is equally a recognition of the fact that when you are going to war you want to maintain unit integrity such that trained men and women who have demonstrated themselves to be fine soldiers are not lost and replaced by unknown quantities. The existence of the policy undermines any argument that with declared homosexuals in its ranks the Armed Forces cannot accomplish its mission in a war. Furthermore, there is no evidence that the presence of known homosexuals in its ranks in any way undermined the effectiveness of the United States Military during the Persian Gulf war.

14. My own opinion, based on all my experience, is that neither unit cohesion, privacy concerns, nor fighting effectiveness would suffer if complete integration of gay men and lesbians was accomplished accompanied by appropriate training and educational programs.

Si: Litigation involving the Navy's homosexual discharge policy

Ref: (a) JAG 1tr JAG:145L:APL:pas Scr 14L/15337 of 21 Jul 1576

 The below answers to questions are provided for use in current and future litigation as requested by reference (a).

(a) Does the statement of policy contained in SECUAVINST 1808.22 relate only to initiating administrative processing, that is, is it addressed only to commanding officers?

SECNAVINST 1900.9A is addressed to all ships and stalling. However, the only action required therein is the initiation of processing which is directed toward commanding officers only.

(b) Restating (a) in perhaps another way, is the presumption of unfitness stated in SECGATINST 1900.SA, meant to influence administrative discharge board deliberations or are board members entirely free to reach their own decisions on retention, without any direction from the Instruction's policy statement?

SECRAVINST 1900.9A is not intended to influence the deliberation of boards of officers or administrative discharge boards convened in accordance with pertinent regulations. Numbers are entirely free to reach their own findings, opinions and recommendations based upon the evidence presented to the board.

(c) Does the Chief of Naval Personnel employ a presumption of unfitness when reviewing administrative discharge cases involving homosexual conduct?

The Chief of Naval Personnel does not employ a presumption of unfitness when reviewing cases involving homosexual conduct or any other type case. Each case is reviewed entirely on its own merits.

(d) Does the Chief of Mayal Personnel have the discretion to retain a homosexual?

Yes.

Subj: Litigation involving the Navy's homosexual discharge policy

- (j) If there are no general guidelines for either discharge or character of discharge, how are those decisions reached?
  - With respect to the decision to discharge, see question (f) above. With respect to character of discharge, not applicable.
- (k) Why is homosexual conduct misconduct?

Homosexual conduct is misconduct because it is prohibited by Articles 125, 133, 134 of the Uniform Code of Military Justice and by the laws of most states.

(1) May do homosexual tendencies make one unfit?

Technically the term "unfit" is not correct. Since 1 Apr 1973 the term "unfit" is no longer applied with respect to discharges. However, in the more normal use of the word "unfit," the following factors would render such an individual unfit for naval service:

- (1) An individual's performance of duties could be unfuly influenced by emotional relationships with other houseautis which would interfere with proper command relationships.
- (2) Such an individual would be liable for court mintial or civil punishment as a result of minisfestations of namesexual tendencies.
- (3) Such individuals might force their desires on others resulting in sexual assaults.
- (4) Additionally, an officer or senior enlisted person who exhibits homosexual tendencies will be unable to mintain the nacessary respect and trust from the great majority of naval personnel who detest/abhor homosexuality. This look of respect and trust would most certainly degrade the officer's ability to successfully perform his duties of supervision and command.
- (m) Does the Navy have any empirical proof that homosexuality among its members has an adverse effect upon the completion of its mission.

No such empirical proof is known at this time.
